State Hospitals Admit 1,280

Frankfort, Ky.—Kentucky's six state tuberculosis hospitals admitted 1,280 patients and discharged 1,238 with a medical diagnosis indicating the condition of 443 had improved during the fiscal year ending in June, it was reported today by Joe D. Miller, executive director of the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium Commission.

Some 200 patients remained on the list awaiting admission.

The figures compare with 1,221 admissions and 1,062 discharges during the previous fiscal year.

Out-patient clinics reported 10,409 visits were made for X-ray examination and treatment as compared with 8,414 during the preceding year.

PRESSURE PUT ON IN EAST GERMANY

Hazel PTA Has First Meeting

The Hazel Parent Teacher Association held its first meeting of the year on September 17 in the library of the school. Fifty-four parents and five visitors registered with Mrs. Starlin Erwin, chairman of the Home Room Mothers.

The second grade was awarded the prize of $2.00 for the largest parent attendance.

Mrs. Raymond Herring's first grade was also well represented and the PTA wishes to especially welcome these mothers and fathers into the organization.

The meeting was begun by Mrs. J. H. Hill who gave a talk on home and school relations. She emphasized the duties of parents and teachers in leading children in a Christian democratic way of life. In her message she stated that with the building of better homes we automatically have better schools and better communities.

Mrs. Pat Thompson, program chairman, had charge of the program on Safety. She introduced Mrs. Alice Steady who read the scripture and lead the prayer. The guest speaker was Mr. Johnson of the State Police. His talk was planned to emphasize the important role a parent plays in shaping the driving habits of his children. In the last five years Mr. Johnson stated that seventeen lives have been lost on the highway between Murray and Hazel.

The citizens of the Hazel Community were asked to recognize and carry out their responsibility in helping the police to make our highways a safer place to travel.

Guy Turner has replaced Brigham Furell who vacated his post as patrolman to fill the office of sheriff. Snapshots of the nine weeks which happened between Murray and Paris in the last sixty days were shown.

Following Mr. Johnson's talk the film "Killer on the Highway" was presented.

This film, produced by the State Highway Department, emphatically shows the fatality of drunken driving.

Following the program Mrs. Billy Strader read the minutes of the April meeting and the suggestions made by the executive committee at its two meetings.

Principal Clyde Scarborough thanked the Booster Club for their aid to the school and for the improvements made during the summer.

North Korean Pilot Brings MIG Into US Air Strip Today

By FRANK JORDAN

United Press Staff Correspondent

SEOUL, Korea, Sept. 21. (UP)—A North Korean pilot streaked his Russian-built MIG-15 jet fighter plane into Kimpo Airbase today in a bold bid for freedom and $100,000 in cash.

The unidentified pilot landed the sleek, swept-wing Communist jet at 8:24 a.m. and surrendered immediately to surprised U. S. Air Force Officers.

U. S. Far East Air Commander Gen. O. P. Weyland confirmed that the pilot was a North Korean but he said the pilot's identity would not be disclosed without his consent.

If the North Korean seeks political asylum, Weyland said, it will be granted "in consonance with the traditional American policy of offering asylum to political refugees."

When 5th Air Force Commander Lt. Gen. Samuel E. Anderson heard of the unexpected delivery of a much-sought-after MIG-15, he hurried to Kimpo to question the dark-haired pilot.

The 5th Air Force announced that experts will examine the plane "to see if it is a modern operational combat-type MIG. If it is, the pilot will receive $100,000 and a ticket to freedom."

He was the first Communist pilot to accept Gen. Mark W. Clark's offer of a $100,000 reward for delivery of an undamaged MIG-15 to United States authorities in Korea.

An Air Force spokesman said Clark's offer of last April never had been withdrawn, even though a truce has been signed and some of the other Allied nations in Korea had called the plan "not sporting."

The pilot followed the exact course mapped on thousands of leaflets dropped near the Communist Manchurian airbase at Anung last April in a campaign to lure pilots and planes away from Communism.

He flew carefully at 20,000 feet and turned inland over the island of Paengong off Korea's west coast on a line leading to Kimpo.

Master Sgt. Leo B. Boyce of Alice, Tex., the Kimpo tower operator, was the first person to see the supersonic plane roar toward the landing strip. Boyce quickly alerted the base to put "Operation Sandbag," code name for the Clark plan, into effect.

The silver-painted MIG made a perfect landing and turned off the runway to a shack where F-96 Sabrejet pilots stand by for missions.

Capt. Cipriano F. Guerra of Mission, Tex., was the leader of the Sabre jet flight on duty at the time the MIG landed. Guerra climbed over the plane and walked over to the plane as the North Korean shut off his engine.

The North Korean saluted Guerra and the two men shook hands.

Guerra was worried about the MIG's guns and pointed to them. The North Korean climbed back into the plane and cut off the switches controlling his guns.

Then, almost as an afterthought, he handed his loaded pistol to Guerra.

Needy Received Over $17,000 Last Month

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Needy residents of Calloway County received $17,827 during August under three Public Assistance programs.

Aaron Paul, State director of Public Assistance, reported today.

The report listed these expenditures:

Old Age Assistance, $15,847; Aid to Dependent Children, $1,880; and Aid to the Needy Blind, $100.

For all three categories of aid $3,330.651 was distributed in the state during August, about $36,000 less than July payments. Old Age Assistance payments totaled $1,942,905 or an average of $34.91 for each case; Aid to Dependent Children payments amounted to $1,293,735 or an average of $28.45 for each family and $93.991 went to the Needy Blind, for an average check of $36.92.

GRAND CANYON, Ariz. (AP)—Emery Kolb, oldest resident of the community, thought it was a pretty sad day when he couldn't find anyone to paint his studio.

Reason for the reluctance of painters? His studio is constructed on the rim of the gorge, overlooking a 600-foot drop.

Kentucky Football Opens With Apparently Many Flaws Left To Be Corrected By Teams

Louisville, Sept. 21 (UP)—The Maroons of Eastern Kentucky stood out today as the one Kentucky college football team which did more than expected of it during the opening weekend of the gridiron season.

The Maroons traveled to Cleveland, Ohio, to score an unexpected 21-19 victory over John Carroll University. The Kentucky Wildcats were unimpressive in losing to Texas A. & M. Louisville downed Murray State in a game that went just about as predicted, with both teams showing early season flaws.

Western Kentucky took a 13-0 beating from Middle Tennessee in an Ohio Valley Conference game; Kentucky State lost to West Virginia State, 19-6; and Morehead was downed by Kentucky "B" squad Thursday night 19-13.

Eastern, sparked by Roy Kidd, came from behind to win over John Carroll. The Maroon quarterback tossed one touchdown pass, a nine-yarder to Larry North, and scored once on his own power.

The winning margin actually

Officials Skeptical Over Rumor Of Beria Escape

By WARREN DUFFER

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21. (UP)—Government officials expressed skepticism today about a report that Joseph Stalin's former chief of staff, Lavrenti P. Beria, had escaped from Russia.

The report came from a highly-placed informant on Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's Senate investigating subcommittee. The informant, who would not let his name be used, said Beria is "in contact" with subcommittee agents abroad and is "eager to come to this country to tell all he knows about the international Communist conspiracy."

Beria, once the No. 2 man in the Kremlin, was fired July 9 as head of the Russian secret police and charged with treason. Western authorities assumed that he was in Soviet prison awaiting trial, but there has been no direct word on his whereabouts.

The McCarthy subcommittee is investigating the possibility that Beria's reported escape may be a gigantic hoax. He first told reporters flatly that "Beria has been out of Russia for more than a month and the subcommittee has been in personal contact with him for a considerable length of time." Later, however, he said the subcommittee is still investigating the matter and does not yet have conclusive proof that the man claiming to be Beria is the deposed Soviet leader.

State Department officials said they knew absolutely nothing about the case. A White House spokesman said he assumed that if Beria wished to contact U. S. officials he would make his approach through diplomatic or intelligence channels rather than through a Senate subcommittee.

The FBI and the Central Intelligence Agency officially had "no comment." Privately, government intelligence experts were decidedly skeptical of the report.

The McCarthy subcommittee informant declined to give any details of Beria's purported escape, or present hiding place. But he said three other high ranking Communists escaped from Russia at the same time and are now with Beria.

He said the subcommittee is prepared to issue a subpoena to bring Beria to Washington to "testify before the subcommittee." He said the subcommittee would go to the State Department and obtain an entry permit for him.

Can Predict Self Into Depression

DETROIT, Mich. Sept. 21. (UP)—Benjamin F. Fairless, chairman of the board of United States Steel Corp., lashed out today at "prophecies of pessimism" and said the country could "predict" itself into a recession unless business recognizes the economic opportunities before it.

Speaking before the Economic Club of Detroit, Fairless said more Americans have jobs than ever before, and wages are higher than ever, and spending is continuing at a record pace.

"Our prophecies of pessimism are terribly worried by the fact that there is no pent-up, post-war backlog of consumer demand as there was at the end of World War II," he said.

"But do you believe for a minute that all of these millions of people, with all of these billions of dollars in their pockets, have bought everything they need and want?" he asked.

Fairless said anyone wanting to discredit the free enterprise system could produce a serious business slump by continually predicting a recession and scaring wage earners and businessmen into hoarding their money instead of spending it on purchases or expansion.

He said one of the barometers used by the "prophecies of pessimism" is the steel industry.

"Steel production for many months was 100 per cent of capacity, but in June the rate dropped below the 100 mark, and last month stood at just under 95 per cent."

However, he said steel plants "were never intended or designed to operate regularly at 100 per cent of capacity" and that despite the fall in production, steel output this year will total more than ever before in history.

Noble D. Outland Now A Corporal

Noble D. Outland, whose wife, Jo Ann, lives at 312 S. Eighth St., Murray, recently was promoted to corporal while serving in Korea with I Corps 204th Field Artillery Battalion.

Corporal Outland arrived in Korea last November from Camp Chaffee, Ark., where he completed basic training. A wire chief in Battery A, he holds the UN and Korean Service Ribbons.

Title son of Mr. and Mrs. Noble Outland, 6844 Greenview Ave., Detroit, he was employed by Lyons, Inc. before entering the Army in April 1952.

During nearly three years of combat, I Corps twice drove the Communists north of the 38th parallel. Combat units of the corps spearheaded the drive from the Pusan peninsula, which smashed to within 40 miles of the Yalu river before the Chinese Reds intervened.

Production Quotas Upped With Less Pay For Workers Ordered

Berlin, Sept. 21 (UP)—Communist East Germany's Red rulers had grim news for East German workers today: Harder work, more production and, in many industries, less pay.

To buck up the demands of East Germany's Communist boss, Walter Ulbricht, for a speed-up, the Reds placed on their eight top officials of the East German hard coal industry charges of letting coal production flop.

The "more work and less pay" program demanded by Ulbricht is identical with the tough labor program which sparked the bloody

June 17 anti-Communist riots and revolt which swept the entire Soviet zone.

Ulbricht, in a speech made Sunday to the German Communist Party central committee and made public today, indicated the Red regime is through coddling workers who were given "soft" treatment for three months to quell their revolt.

Ulbricht singled out the coal industry in particular for criticism of lax production. He said it was fallen 2,700,000 tons behind schedule.

In announcing the "show trial" of the eight officials of the industry, the official Communist news agency ADN described them as "the largest vermin group" in East Germany.

The agency accused them of carrying out espionage, passing production secrets and results of research to U. S. agents and sabotaging production.

The trial was regarded as a grim warning to other Communist directors of East German industry to obey Ulbricht's demands for greater production.

"A serious increase in work production is needed in all parts of our industry," Ulbricht said. "Such productivity is expressed in the setting of workers' norms."

But while a speed-up is essential, Ulbricht said, no wage increases will be permitted because prices of consumer goods must be reduced.

He gave an implied warning also that under the Communist program of raising the standard of living, wages might even be reduced.

The new program will involve a complete overhaul of East zone wages, Ulbricht said.

Ulbricht, vice premier in the East German government, is considered the No. 1 man in the party.

Reds Deny Having More Allied Troops

Panmunjom, Korea, Sept. 21 (UP)—The Communists denied today that they ever captured most of the 3,404 Allied troops for whom the U. N. Command had demanded an accounting.

At a meeting of the armistice commission, the Communists made the denial and asked for information about 98,742 North Koreans and Chinese camps claimed were captured by U. N. troops and never accounted for.

The Allies made their request about the 3,404 missing POWs, including 944 Americans, on Sept. 8. The U. N. Command accused the Reds of being responsible for the deaths of, or withholding information about, the missing soldiers who were not repatriated or listed as dead.

North Korean Gen. Lee Sang Cho said today the U. N. roster was "crudely manufactured" propaganda.

He said 519 of the men have been repatriated and 380 others were "released at the front" early in the war, had escaped or had died. Others refused repatriation, he said.

The United Nations has said that all the missing troops were reported in prison camps either by returned POWs or by other means, including Communist propaganda broadcasts.

Today's meeting was called by the Communists.

The U. N. list handed to the Reds Sept. 9 included 2,410 South Koreans, 19 British, three Canadians, eight South Africans, three Belgians, two Columbians, five Turks, one Greek and 944 Americans.

Maj. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, senior U. N. delegate to the armistice commission, told the Reds they must give an accounting of the missing POWs "or else." He did not elaborate on "or else."

Republicans Make Plans

The Republicans met in Chicago for a two-day "pow-wow," and made plans for holding control of Congress next year.

If they want to profit from 20 years on "the outside looking in," they should realize they made some serious mistakes in the session of Congress just ended.

When the Democrats came into power in 1933 President Roosevelt became famous for trying experiments to end the depression.

"Let's give it a try" was one of his favorite expressions when someone suggested a scheme to get folks back to work, and off relief.

Many things he tried failed, as is always the case either in government or private enterprise. The important thing is that they tried something, while the Republicans had done "nothing."

If anything can be justly said in criticism of the 80th Congress it is that it was what Harry S. Truman calls a "do nothing Congress."

The Republicans promised many things last year and they made a sincere effort to make good on some of their promises, but they didn't do nearly enough.

Too many people voted for them believing they would do a great deal more towards balancing the budget in 1954, not '56, '57 or '58.

A great many voted for them believing income taxes would be cut and certain war-time taxes would be repealed.

Was it too much to expect? If so the Republicans had no business making promises to balance the budget and reduce taxes.

David Lawrence, the noted columnist, says the Democrats did more in Chicago to re-elect the Republicans next year than they can do for themselves.

He said there are many Democrats like him who voted for Eisenhower who were beginning to regret it until the Democrats met this week in Chicago and reminded them of how rotten the Truman Administration really was.

They continue to demand that all Democrats who expect to return to the party must endorse Truman waste and corruption.

Whether there are enough Democrats like Lawrence to re-elect the Republicans in 1954 and 1956 remains to be seen. We suspect there are a great many who voted for Eisenhower who would not do so now because they feel the Republicans have not gone far enough and moved fast enough to clean up the "mess in Washington."

They will, of course, have another chance before next year's campaign, but they will have to do a great deal more to please voters than they did this year.

Brooklyn's Pitching May Be Stronger Than It Is Rated

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer
New York, Sept. 21 (UP)—Brooklyn's pitching may be stronger than it is rated while the Yankees could be banking too much on past performances with their hurling staff.

Nevertheless, because they're running on the "experience ticket," the Yankee pitchers must be given a slight edge. And because pitching is such a vital factor in short competition like the World Series, that could be a big edge for the four-in-a-row world champions.

The key man, of course, is Allie Reynolds. And the Reynolds who moved down the Dodger slugging for four Series victories could do it again. But is it the same Reynolds? His record this year would indicate no. He has a 12-7 mark as against a 20-8 record in 1952. But he has looked sharp in two recent outings. The catch, of course is that those starts were against the Browns and Tigers—teams a long way down from the caliber of the Dodgers.

Brooklyn's best is Carl Erskine, whose 20-8 won and lost mark makes him the only 20-game winner in the Series. He pitched no-hit ball for all but one inning in last year's thrilling 11-inning fifth game which the Dodgers won 6-5.

Wellington O. Pratt was bitter over treatment he had received as an artist and sculptor, so he had his resentment carved in his tombstone.

The stone, standing over the grave of Pratt and his mother in Greenwood Cemetery here, attracts many tourists. Pratt died in 1921 at the age of 76. The inscription reads:

"Stranger, I lived in an age when corruption was in our government and the ballot box was begged for. When martyred presidents who died in the line of duty were buried in the same place as the poor. When money and fashion had the brains and talent went over the water for want of free schools of art supported by our government. Such were the conditions which caused my landscape to decay with me as nature shows it. Farewell."

Pratt himself spent a good deal of time in Europe studying art. When he came back he earned a tiny income by sketching portraits of townspeople and selling them for a pittance.

He painted murals on the inside of his house but just before he died he destroyed them all.

County Agent A. A. Williams of Henderson county says prices of equipment and fuel make irrigation of doubtful value.

San Francisco, (UP)—Passersby on busy downtown streets apparently mind their own business.

Police said that while the sidewalk was filled with afternoon shoppers Thursday, someone jimmied the hood ventilator of a parked automobile, reached through and opened the window, unlocked the door and then walked away with $1,100 in coins weighing more than 100 pounds.

No one reported seeing anything unusual.

But fleas are present in just about every home, especially if there are dogs or cats around. When the house is left empty, the fleas breed and hatch faster, because there are no "disturbing elements" such as movement to distract them.

To get rid of them, MSD specialists recommend DDT powder sprinkled on floors overnight and then removed with a vacuum cleaner. If there are cats in the house, however, DDT can not be used because it is poisonous to the animals. Another insecticide—Bontone powder—is called for in these cases.

MEAT COOKERY Quiz

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?
A. Fresh beef brisket.

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?
A. This is the brisket section of beef containing the breast bone and made up of layers of lean and fat.

Q. How is it prepared?
A. By braising or by cooking in liquid. In braising the meat is browned, then a small amount of liquid added, covered and cooked until tender. In cooking in liquid, the meat is placed in a heavy utensil and completely covered with water, a cover placed on top and cooked slowly for 40-50 minutes per pound.

Article On Lake Appears In Magazine

The flowering of the great Tennessee Valley—embracing sections of this and six other states—into the outstanding recreational development in America is outlined by Bill Wolf in the Sept. 5th issue of The Saturday Evening Post.

His article, "These Southerners Just Love Yankees," explains that the Tennessee Valley Authority's multipurpose dam construction program for flood control, navigation and production of hydroelectric power has created 600,000 surface acres of lakes for fishing and boating in an area which was principally farmland only twenty years ago.

Along the 10,000 miles of new shore line in Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama, northeastern Mississippi and Kentucky, Wolf reports, a tourist trade has mushroomed, with farmers reporting higher profits on less work. The business reportedly was worth more than $400,000,000 in 1952, making it the third largest source of income in the valley.

The article tells that $38,000,000 has been spent on recreational developments along the shores of these man-made "Great Lakes of the South," with an even larger investment away from the shore line in motels, tourist courts, hotels, restaurants, gasoline stations, fishing-tackle places and bait-supply houses.

Wolf says that despite the political and economic controversies that raged about TVA, before and after its inception, the fact stands out that its dam building has created the county's newest big playground, radically altering the lives of millions of people living within the seven-state drainage system and affecting many more millions who now visit the region.

The author relates that until 1933, the Tennessee was just a "mean old river," in the term of the natives, given to ruinous flash floods or to un navigable shoals in low-water periods. Recreationally speaking, he adds, the whole drainage area of 40,000 square miles was a desert, across which tourist hurried.

MODERNIZED TRUANT OFFICERS DESIRED
Ithaca, N. Y. (UP)—"Old-fashioned" truant officers are in part to blame for juvenile delinquency according to State Sen. Thomas C. Desmond.

The Newburgh Republican frowned on strong-arm methods of keeping children in school. He believes modern "attendance teachers" should be trained in psychology.

The goal of the attendance teacher is not to shackle a child to a school seat, but to ferret out causes of persistent hooky-plying, said Desmond. "Today's truant is likely to represent a 'fangle' of warped emotional reactions, the product of deep-rooted disturbances, broken or poverty-stricken homes."

Nearly 300 farmers attended two irrigation demonstrations in Whitely county.

Republicans Make Plans

The Republicans met in Chicago for a two-day "pow-wow," and made plans for holding control of Congress next year.

If they want to profit from 20 years on "the outside looking in," they should realize they made some serious mistakes in the session of Congress just ended.

When the Democrats came into power in 1933 President Roosevelt became famous for trying experiments to end the depression.

"Let's give it a try" was one of his favorite expressions, when someone suggested a scheme to get folks back to work, and off relief.

Many things he tried failed, as is always the case either in government or private enterprise. The important thing is that they tried "something," while the Republicans had done "nothing."

If anything can be justly said in criticism of the 80th Congress it is that it was what Harry S. Truman calls a "do nothing Congress."

The Republicans promised many things last year and they made a sincere effort to make good on some of their promises, but they didn't do nearly enough.

Too many people voted for them believing they would do a great deal more towards balancing the budget in 1954, not '55, '57 or '58.

A great many voted for them, believing income taxes would be cut and certain war-time taxes would be repealed.

Was it too much to expect? If so the Republicans had no business making promises to balance the budget and reduce taxes.

David Lawrence, the noted columnist, says the Democrats did more in Chicago to re-elect the Republicans next year than they can do for themselves.

He said there are many Democrats like him who voted for Eisenhower who were beginning to regret it until the Democrats met this week in Chicago and reminded them of how rotten the Truman Administration really was.

They continue to demand that all Democrats who expect to return to the party must endorse Truman waste and corruption.

Whether there are enough Democrats like Lawrence to re-elect the Republicans in 1954 and 1956 remains to be seen. We suspect there are a great many who voted for Eisenhower who would not do so now because they feel the Republicans have not gone far enough and moved fast enough to clean up the "mess in Washington."

They will, of course, have another chance before next year's campaign, but they will have to do a great deal more to please voters than they did this year.

Today's Sports Parade

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.
By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (UP)—Rocky Marciano defends the heavyweight championship of the world against Roland La Starza on Thursday night and from the corner a look like simply a question of how long it will take the boxer to go off.

Not that this won't be a good battle while it lasts. La Starza has a lot of bitterness within him because his first defeat was a narrow decision loss to Marciano three and a half years ago and the Rock has dodged him ever since.

Remembering La Starza's record here, to be making a terrific mistake. He has been sounding off on the theory that Marciano hasn't improved in that span of time.

Obviously you could take that as a ticket talk designed to promote the magnitude of the winner.

But La Starza actually seems to believe his pronounced cry to achieve his pronounced cry.

Possibly he is giving himself a psychological lift. Maybe this purported La Starza disdain is designed to help him make his way up and through the ropes. This day night, something a number of Joe Louis rivals found impossible.

But psychology never has been found to be a poor custom and a stiff cloth to the whiskers.

For La Starza's information, Marciano has come quite a piece since they last engaged in fastidiously back in 1950. The Brooklyn Boxer still keeps his punches, admittedly but he has polished his counterpunching and has sharpened his roundhouse punches.

On top of that, Rocky loves to fight and gloves in the training ring which is a credit to so many of the trade. Marciano never goes so far as to put in extra hard work in the evenings and it is a man like the old Jack Dempsey who feels exhilarated when swinging boxing gloves.

Of course, just 27 years ago Wednesday, a boxer named Gene Tunney won the crown from the Hawaiian Mauka. They have been boxing. Marciano, the great champion, but as of the moment, La Starza isn't any Tunney.

That at least will be proved come Thursday night.

Brooklyn's Pitching May Be Stronger Than It Is Rated

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer
New York, Sept. 21 (UP)—Brooklyn's pitching may be stronger than it is rated while the Yankees could be banking too much on past performances with their hurling staff.

Nevertheless, because they're running on the "experience ticket," the Yankee pitchers must be given a slight edge. And because pitching is such a vital factor in short competition like the World Series, that could be a big edge for the four-in-a-row world champions.

The key man, of course, is Allie Reynolds. The Reynolds who moved down the Dodger slugging for four Series victories could do it again. But is it the same Reynolds? His record this year would indicate no. He has a 12-7 mark as against a 20-8 record in 1952. But he has looked sharp in two recent outings. The catch, of course is that those starts were against the Browns and Tigers—teams a long way down from the caliber of the Dodgers.

Brooklyn's best is Carl Erskine whose 20-6 won and lost mark makes him the only 20-game winner in the Series. He pitched a hit ball for all but one inning in last year's thrilling 11-inning fifth game which the Dodgers won 6-5.

Since Reynolds has left the bullpen, veteran John Sam with a 14-4 mark is the No. 1 man and also is a likely starter if needed.

Manager Casey Stengel also has talked much about using lefty Bob Kuzava 6-4, who stopped the Dodgers cold in the final game in 1952, young Tom Gorman 4-5, and Jim McDonald 9-7.

Tom Stinson tells ARTIST'S CONCEPT

WELLINGTON, O. (UP)—Otis G. Pratt was bitter over treatment he had received as an artist and sculptor, so he had his resentment carved in his tombstone.

The stone, standing over the grave of Pratt and his mother, in Greenwood cemetery here, attracts many tourists. Pratt died in 1921 at the age of 76. The inscription reads:

"Stranger, I lived in 75 years when corruption was in our government and the ballot box was begged for. When martyred president, one who echoed over our land when law and respect clung to the rich and shunned the poor. When money and fashion had the brains and talent went over the water for want of free schools of art supported by our government. Such were the conditions which caused my landscape to decay with me as nature shows it. Farewell."

Pratt himself spent a good deal of time in Europe studying painting. When he came back he earned a living income by sketching portraits of townspeople and selling them for a pittance.

He painted murals on the inside of his house but just before he died he destroyed them all.

County Agent A. A. Williams of Henderson county says prices of equipment and fuel make irrigation of doubtful value.

NOTHING UNUSUAL

San Francisco, (UP)—Passersby on busy downtown streets apparently mind their own business.

Police said that while the sidewalk was filled with afternoon shoppers Thursday, someone jimmied the hood ventilator of a parked automobile, reached through and opened the window, unlocked the door and then walked away with $1,100 in coins weighing more than 100 pounds.

No one reported seeing anything unusual.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX THE TWO men returned to the lobby. Cavanaugh said: "The woman in the green raincoat and McKee said: "Might be. We'll check on Eleanor Oaks' whereabouts at the time." He used the phone and got the manager of the apartment hotel on Park Ave. The personnel couldn't say whether Mrs. Oaks had been in or out from 4 to 6 last Monday.

Questions about the woman in the green raincoat produced blank stares from the clerks, the bell-boys, the checkroom girl, the doorman and a porter.

One of the elevator girls remembered Wilder clearly. "Big handsome guy on six? Sure. Looked like a movie star. Wilder had been in a dither about something when he was checking out; she had brought him down. Generally he had a word and a smile for her, but not that day. He was carrying two suitcases. She noticed, because one of them was good, nice leather, the other was a cheap thing made of straw.

Two suitcases. McKee had a mental picture of Wilder's room in the Denfield inn, of one suitcase on the trunk rack at the foot of the bed. There might have been another in a closet. He rang the inn. Wilder had arrived in Denfield with only one suitcase.

What had he done with the other between the hotel and the train? It might simply have contained soiled linen, and Wilder might have taken it back to his room in the Village. He hadn't. A quick trip downtown assured McKee of that. According to the janitor, no one had seen him nor hair of Mr. Wilder since a young lady and him—the man pointed to Cavanaugh—had come looking for Wilder early the week before.

Grand Central next; the straw bag could have been checked there, or Wilder could have rented a lock box. He had done neither. Establishing it, particularly the lock box—they had a long wait for the official with the master keys—took more than an hour. There was one other place, the lost and found office on the west balcony.

There McKee got what he was after. The straw suitcase reposed on a shelf in full view. It had been picked up near the information booth on the Tuesday night in question and turned in by a porter. The attendant produced it and said: "Describe the contents." McKee flashed his shield and took the suitcase with him.

He carried it across to the balcony overlooking the great central room below. The balcony was dim, empty. McKee opened the suitcase. The catches were clumsy. He cut the cord and threw up the lid. The green raincoat was there, rolled into a bundle. And the thing, the raincoat had been wrapped around was a beanie-up blond wig.

Tony Wilder was the tall woman in the green raincoat Cavanaugh had seen leaving the Hotel Bronson last Monday afternoon. He was the one Kit Haven had seen on the 72nd St. platform disguised as a woman. He was the collector of the candy box and its sweet contents.

Mrs. Hertle Craig Hostess For Meet Of East Hazel Club

More use of parliamentary procedure in the club meetings was presented by the president, Mrs. Glen Kelso, of the East Hazel Homemakers Club meeting held in the home of Mrs. Hertle Craig on Wednesday afternoon.

The ten members present voted to secure a gravel for the present use in keeping order during the meetings.

"Clothing Guideposts" was the subject of the lesson presented by Mrs. Howard Kelso, the main lesson leader. Several new washable fabrics were shown to the members and although at first the members thought the materials seemed too expensive, after considering the high cost of dry cleaning other materials, these new washable fabrics would in reality cost less than materials used in the past.

Mrs. A. C. Morrison, reading chairman, gave a report on the recent meeting with other reading leaders of the county.

After a report given by Mrs. Hertle Craig, membership chairman, the members voted to set the addition of five new members as a goal for the year. The meeting adjourned to meet with Mrs. Howard Kelso in October.

BIG HEARTED

Belo Horizonte, Brazil, (UP)—A local newspaper reported that a butcher has been offered $1,000 to bequeath his body to a medical school because he has two hearts.

The picturesque angle of the case, the newspaper Folha de Minas added, is that Geraldo Machado, known as Two-Hearts, has 20 wives and 40 children.

"He says that he is 52 years old and that when one of his hearts stops beating the other one will keep right on working."

Bride To Be Of McCarthy To Stop Work

WASHINGTON (UP)—Jean Kerr, a blue-eyed long-stemmed former campus beauty queen, said she'll give up her working career when she marries Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy here Sept. 29.

Miss Kerr, a long-time research assistant to the Wisconsin Republican, said she will be "quite content to be a housewife."

Mrs. Elizabeth F. Kerr, widow of the 5 foot 3 inch Auburn-haired beauty, announced Thursday that the marriage will be performed in St. Matthews Catholic cathedral here. McCarthy is 43; his fiancée is 29.

As excited and harried as any other girl planning a wedding, the statuesque Miss Kerr said she would announce details of her plans later.

Miss Kerr, a native of Washington, was a research assistant in McCarthy's office from 1944 until 1952. She since has been engaged in free-lance research work.

Japanese Weaken Occupation's Law Against Monopoly

Tokyo (UP)—The Japanese government has revised and weakened the occupation-inspired anti-monopoly law designed to break up the "zaibatsu" firms which dominated the nation's business.

The measure, which will have a tremendous impact on the Japanese economy, was approved by the Diet during the past session and went through almost without notice.

The anti-monopoly law was put into effect as one of the key occupation reforms in a move to break up the "zaibatsu" and to insure "fair and equal competition" among domestic and international firms.

At the time, many top Japanese businessmen felt the main purpose of the law was to smash Japan's competitive position abroad.

Capital Concentration
However, at the same time many of Japan's "little businessmen" were very pleased with the law. It gave them an opportunity to exist and compete with the former giants.

One of the effects of the revision of the law, according to Japanese experts, is that it will lead to a concentration of capital.

Some experts say this will be a good thing, they say Japan is suffering from the lack of capital. Others take a less optimistic view.

The revision of the law in some respects merely legalizes what has been going on since the end of the occupation. For some months the smaller firms created by breaking up the "zaibatsu" have been reuniting. Now they have an official "green light."

Firms in competition with each other now legally may have stocks on common and have joint offices.

Banks now are permitted to purchase up to 10 per cent of the stocks of any company. As a result, Japanese newspapers already are warning that affiliated banks are now in a position to become the "New Zaibatsu."
